An interesting read through and at one go too! It is really good and made me go back ages and ages to my childhood and visits to granny's places. So many questions put forth and so many answered all sewn together to make a bouquet of language, literature and life. Longings are visible behind every word of Amma's Gospel, and the poet and thinker has done a great job in teaching to teach without the interference of dreams in the upbringing of the future generation. The nuclear families of today have stolen away the stories of dada dadi and nana nani and the future generation are all in a run to make their lives smooth but without the heart that was there with the elders at home.
